

SAMUEL ART GLASS

Hand Blown Glass Art Installations and Illuminations

Lit glass is a medium unto itself... Its brilliant glow makes magic of any space and mystery of every shadow

In Samuel Decker's hands the magic and mystery of glass comes alive. Samuel specializes in large-scale hand-blown art glass installations and unique light fixtures that show off the brilliance, mystery and magic of lit glass.

This Pacific Northwest artist's modern, abstract pieces are painstakingly and lovingly created from many pieces of hand-blown glass, often resembling floral and sea patterns when completed. Samuel often combines his art glass with metal, resulting in grace and solidity captured in enchanting harmony. Each piece of art that Samuel creates is hand made at his studio in Eugene, OR.

This folio is a sampling of Samuel's current offerings designed primarily for the hospitality industry, plus a few images of past custom work.

(Note: Waves, flowers, circles, etc. require external spotlights provided by others; FireboxX lamps are internally lit.)

Featured New Design

A tower of burning boxes was the inspiration for this new design. Hand-blown glass and hand-fabricated steel structures combine to make a strikingly unique table or floor lamp. The glass “boxes” are made using a method which encapsulates many small bubbles in the glass creating a striking effect, both in how it lights up from within and how it projects a pattern of light on a wall. Two sizes of boxes (6” or 12”) are offered, stacked in various heights: from a table or counter-top single-box lamp on up to an 8 foot tall floor lamp. Sizes and colors configurable to your specifications.

Equipoise Series

Abstract multi-piece, wall or ceiling-mounted glass installations suggesting flowing water or any other symmetrical flowing pattern. Pieces can be mounted horizontally, vertically, geometrically, etc. Colors, sizes and arrangements configurable to your needs.
